VendorFuel™ Announces Sponsorship of WordCamp Sacramento 2019

Rocklin, CA Mon, Aug. 26th 2019 – VendorFuel™, the advanced single-page application shopping cart Plugin recently re-released for the WordPress platform, has announced it's official sponsorship of WordCamp Sacramento 2019.

WordCamps are community-organized conferences that focus on all things WordPress for users at every skill level. WordPress users come to the typically multi-day events to improve their skills with WordPress during teaching sessions, share ideas, network and get to know vendors in the WordPress Community.

"We're proud to support our local WordPress Community by helping sponsor our home WordCamp Sacramento again this year" said Kevin Hoffman, founder and CEO of Hoffman Technologies, Inc., the company behind development of the VendorFuel shopping cart.

WordCamp Sacramento 2019 will be held September 21-22, 2019 at The Falls Event Center in Roseville, CA and is expected to attract up to 500 attendees this year. Tickets and complete event information can be found at https://2019.sacramento.wordcamp.org.

VendorFuel offers an enterprise-grade e-commerce solution for WordPress users with advanced features and capabilities not commonly found in other shopping cart plugins available on the WordPress platform.

Built using AngularJS and Laravel, VendorFuel is designed to be a modern, lightweight shopping cart served as a single-page web application.

All VendorFuel pricing plans begin with an extended risk-free trial period so WordPress users are free to download VendorFuel and start selling products at their website for up-to ninety days with no cost or obligation.

The most current version of VendorFuel is now available for download directly from the WordPress Plugin Repository (https://wordpress.org/plugins/vendorfuel).

For more information about the VendorFuel Plugin for WordPress contact Kevin Hoffman, CEO Hoffman Technologies, Inc. at kevin@vendorfuel.com.
